

Developer halts plans to convert apartments

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

The Lewis Development Co. has withdrawn its plans to convert a 62-unit apartment building into condominiums on Foothill Boulevard in Upland.

The firm's request helped prompt a four-month moratorium placed on conversions by the Upland City Council in mid-October. City officials are currently exploring standards for an ordinance governing conversions.

Richard Lewis of the Upland-based firm said Tuesday the proposal was withdrawn because the "city seemed opposed to the thing."

He doubted the request would be resubmitted when the city comes out with its new ordinance on conversions. The moratorium continues through Feb. 15.

Referring to the North Upland Terrace Apartments, 1460 W. Foothill Blvd., Lewis said, "I don't see us doing anything on it for a year or so."

In September, the planning commission rejected both the company's requests for conditional-use permit and tentative tract map.

That decision was appealed to the city council. Because of a mix-up over city staff's recommendation for continuance before the planning commission, no Lewis Development representative attended the commission hearing. So the council directed the commission to hold a new hearing.

Lewis withdrew the plans for conversion in a letter to the city before last week's commission meeting.

City Attorney Donald Maroney said this week the council could not have approved the plans under the current moratorium, although the project was submitted before the freeze on conversions.

Lewis previously said the original staff recommendation calling for a "focused" environmental impact report on the conversion request was unfounded. The building basically meets the standards for new condominiums, he said.

In an interview last month, he said the firm was "seriously" exploring its legal options.

Planning Director Bill Young said in September that parking, vehicle access and recreational open space at the site were all at minimum apartment standards.

He also pointed out that conversion could mean families moving into the building primarily designed for single adults and that the environmental report should address the overall effect of conversion on the city's rental stock.

In an October memo, Young said, "It is my opinion that this application is intended to serve as a 'test' of the city's policies and standards for planned residential developments and for its authority to regulate apartment conversions and that the applicant will seek relief through the courts in the event of denial of the application."

Young expressed confidence that the firm had not exhausted its avenues for administrative relief as a necessary prelude to a successful court challenge.

Shown are, left, Tammy Carpenter and Chuck Pool, and, right, Patricia Baguley (foreground), Michelle Van Ord and Sammy Vargas. The 10 keyboards are new to the school this semester. Hess said the instruments are being used to give the students a general background in music, adding that the keyboard could serve as a springboard for the students taking up other instruments. None of the students had previously played an instrument. (Staff photo by Don Green)

Upland junior high students studying keyboard, not piano

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

Some 20 seventh- and eighth-graders at Upland Junior High School are learning about music by playing an instrument that packs away like a suitcase, takes up little space and costs a lot less than a piano.

The students attend a music class taught by Mary Jane Hess, and the instrument they play is called simply a keyboard.

Hess said none of the students played an instrument before the class was introduced this fall, but added the class as a whole has made good progress.

Hers is the first class in the Upland School District equipped with keyboards, although Hess said there may be other schools in the area using the recently marketed instrument.

The room has 10 keyboards, manufactured by Wuritzer, that plug into an electronic console. The instrument fits easily onto a desk, taking up about the same space as a suitcase, and has 44 keys — 26 white and 18 black — half those of a piano.

Hess noted the sound the keyboard produces is less pronounced than that from a piano. The keyboard also has a volume control switch and earphones, blocking off the sound for all but the student or Hess as she checks on the student's progress.

These practical advantages mean less chance of conflicting sounds during practice sessions and of disturbing nearby classes, Hess said.

The keyboard itself cost about $185, with additional cost for the earphones and three control boxes, Hess said. Her room also has two pianos, and Hess noted the price of a piano can run about $1,000.

Hess said the purpose of the class is to give the students a good general background in music, and added that the keyboard could serve as a springboard for taking up any other instrument.

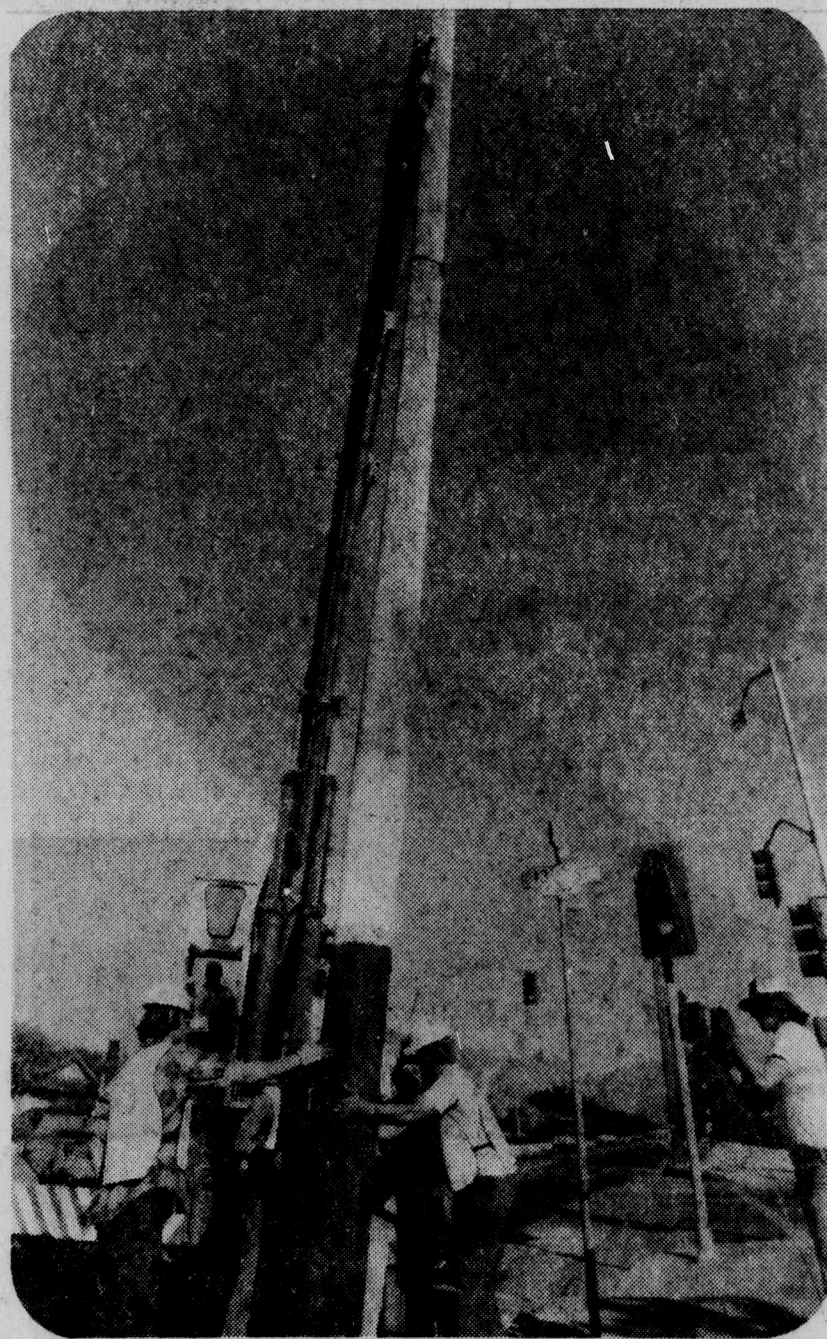

The students started the semester before the keyboards arrived. Hess noted they practiced on recorders, flute-like instruments, and bells, which look like shortened versions of xylophones.

Upland sets 'fun run' for all ages

The Upland Recreation Department's Fun Run will be held on Saturday, Dec. 1, at 8:00 a.m. The run will begin at the Madonna of the Trail statue located at Euclid Avenue and Foothill Boulevard in Upland. Runners may choose distances of approximately one, three, or five miles. Entry fee is 25 cents.

The Fun Run, which is being coordinated by Chaffey College physical education instructor, Mary Gonzales, is a non-competitive running activity for runners of all skill levels and age groups. All runners run at their own pace. The Fun Run will be held on the first Saturday of each month, rain or shine.

For further information, call the Upland Recreation Department at 985-0994.

Workers use giant crane to remove utility pole at Mountain Avenue and 13th Street in Upland. Randy Bond of the Southern California Edison Co. said the removal of poles and overhead wires represents the final step for burying utility lines on Mountain between Foothill Boulevard and 16th Street. General Telephone Co., Theta Cable and Edison shared the cost of the project, which Bond put at $350,000. Edison has been allocating funds annually for some 10 years to cities and counties for putting the lines underground, including more than $550,000 for projects in Upland, Bond said. The nearly two-year project on Mountain was concluded last week. Underground cables and transformers were installed earlier. (Staff photo by Tom Tondoe)

Upland asks Foothill Freeway considerations based upon need

The Upland City Council is sending a letter to the state Transportation Commission urging the panel to divorce possible methods of financing from its current study on whether the Foothill Freeway should be extended.

With Mayor George Gibson absent, the council unanimously authorized the letter at its meeting last week. In Gibson's absence, the letter will be signed by Mayor Pro Tem John McCarthy.

The action followed a meeting in Santa Barbara by the commission last week when a consultant outlined four options for the future of the freeway corridor, which goes through Upland, and suggested a portion of financing might hinge on funds generated locally.

The commission requested a written study before pursuing the freeway question, which is so far scheduled to be heard again during the commission's February meeting in Indio.

City Manager Lee Travers said the letter from the council, which has supported the freeway extension, will say that local funds, such as some new type of development fee, are inappropriate for the state project.

He added that the letter will tell the commission that the need for the freeway or some other transportation use of the corridor should be considered on its own merits rather than be tied to the financing questions.

McDonald's expansion rejected

McDonald's requested a drive-through operation for its restaurant on Foothill Boulevard near Second Avenue, but the Upland Planning Commission decided nearby residents were the ones who deserved a break last week.

With Ed Sloman absent, the commissioners voted 5-1 to reject the drive-through facility. Commissioner Al Canestro dissented.

In the same action, the commission also said the restaurant should be considered a conforming use in its zone. Approval of a conditional-use permit for remodeling of the restaurant in 1973 apparently was overlooked at the time, and the action Tuesday night was aimed in part at taking care of this oversight.

McDonald's requested putting in a drive-through lane, menu board with speaker and service window. Three residents of Second Avenue — living just south of the restaurant at 100 E. Foothill Blvd. — objected to this modification of the conditional-use permit.

They expressed concern over additional traffic closer to their properties, debris and noise.

Richard Curry called the "fast-food service bad enough, let alone a drive-through."

Canestro noted other drive-throughs have been permitted in the city, saying, "While I'm not a great fan of fast-food restaurants, I feel we're treating this one unjustly."

However, Commissioner John Zinda and others pointed out that most, if not all, of the other drive-throughs back onto commercial, not residential, uses.

Commissioner Faye Bert said the other restaurants with drive-through operations were originally approved for the service. McDonald's is seeking modification of its existing facility, she noted.

Linda Clapp, a construction engineer representing McDonald's, said the restaurant chain is likely to appeal the commission ruling to the city council.

After the vote, she noted that drive-throughs are a trend for fast-food restaurants today and that McDonald's needs to add the service to stay competitive. She estimated 30 percent of the customers would use the drive-through.

The restaurant was built in 1968, but not before the city required the chain to eliminate the large, free-standing golden arches, then a famous trademark for its restaurants.

Area residents protest project

Concerned that a condominium project would be out of step with their area, about 70 residents of San Antonio Heights last week opposed a residential development sought at the northern edge of Upland.

The Upland Planning Commission postponed action on the plans for 35 townhouses near the southeast corner of Mountain Avenue and 24th Street until Jan. 24. The vote was 4-2, with Commissioners James Cummo Sr. and Faye Bert dissenting and Commissioner Ed Sloman absent.

Chairman John Meyer told the applicant, Orchard Terrace Inc. of Corona Del Mar, the commission wanted to see modifications in the project's design.

"We're asking you to come up with something a bit different," he said.

The commission delayed consideration of the conditional-use permit and tentative tract map. Earlier in the meeting, commissioners approved a zone change from agricultural to single-family residential use, zoning that follows the general plan for the area.

The 8.85-acre project is the first to reach the planning commission with a request for a "density bonus" under a plan for the northwest part of the city thrashed out by the commission and city council in 1977.

The plan allows a maximum of three units per acre for residential development of conventional, single-family homes in the northwest. However, innovative, planned-residential developments may qualify for up to four units per acre.

Residents voiced strong opposition to the project, citing possible overcrowding of Valencia School, the changes it would require on 24th street, drainage problems, and a clash they saw with the predominant style of homes in the vicinity.

An underlying theme in many of the remarks was concern over further disappearance of citrus groves and the rural flavor of the area.

Dr. Howard Schuman, an 18-year resident of Burt Street, called the current neighborhood stable and said he feared the townhouses' ownership would be susceptible to frequent turnover, a sentiment echoed by other residents.

Orphan Players to give 'The Hobbit' Persons who passed bar exam announced

Marvels, magic and strange terrors will fill the stage at The Little Theater in Ontario Dec. 14, 15, 20 to 22 and 27 to 29 when the Orphan Players present "The Hobbit."

This modern classic is appealing to the imagination and intellect of young and old, as they watch Bilbo Baggins (John Eddings of Pomona), who really just wants to be left to live in his roomy home in the ground, lead a crew of dwarfs, trolls and a special wizard, Gandalf (Bob Roth of Rancho Cucamonga), to recapture a treasure.

J.R.R. Tolkien's creation has been adapted for the stage by playwright Patricia Gray, who has maintained the magical and delicate touch of the author.

The Orphan Players is a local, non-profit theater group which is a division of the Mission Ballet Company of Southern California. H.D. Vagueois, co-ordinator of the repertory group, says she is dedicated "to bringing uplifting family entertainment to the San Gabriel and Pomona Valleys."

For reserved seats and ticket information call 988-6877. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. The Little Theater is located at 225 1/2 N. Lemon Ave., Ontario.

Just Shake it and Let it Fall Into Place. The Precision Haircut.

Because your head is unique, the way your hair grows is equally unique. Really quite different from every one else's.

Precision haircutting is a technique for cutting the hair in harmony with the way it grows. Your hair eventually grows out but it doesn't lose its shape with a precision haircut. Consequently your haircut will look as good after five days as it does after five minutes. And because the hair falls naturally into place you won't have to keep fussing with it. Usually a shake of the head does it.

At Command Performance we shampoo, precision-cut and blow dry your hair for sixteen dollars, whether you're a gal or a guy. And no appointments are ever necessary.

We also offer permanent waves, coloring, frosting and conditioning. But we really shine with precision. And so will you.

ALHS singers will make 11 appearances

Alta Loma High School's two top musical organizations will indeed have a busy December, attending school and performing throughout the area to bring Christmas cheer to many. Highlight of the month will be the participation of the A Cappella Choir in the Disneyland festivities. This appearance came about as a result of a tape submitted to Disneyland and acceptance to appear is an honor.

In addition to the Disneyland appearance, both A Cappella and Chamber Singers plan numerous activities. Dec. 2, Chamber Singers will present an after service concert at St. Marks Episcopal Church, Upland on Dec. 6, the group will present a similar concert at Cucamonga Methodist Church.

The A Cappella and Chamber Singers will join forces to participate in the annual Montclair Plaza Christmas program on Dec.

11. Both groups will also appear at Rancho Cucamonga Women's Club, Sweeten Hall, Cucamonga, on Dec. 12, for the 55-plus Fellowship. The will also perform at the Arbor Restaurant, on Dec. 14, and for the Upland Travelers at the First Methodist Church, Upland, on Dec. 18. Chamber Singers will have added appearances at Casa Colina on Dec. 10.

High school business group benefits slated

The newest club on the Alta Loma High School campus, the Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA), has launched several activities to raise money for club activities.

Just completing a sale of stationery, they will sell key chains beginning on Dec. 1. The key chains are aluminum, with a Braves' mascot and ALHS on them. They will sell for 75 cents each.

FBLA will host a dinner for adults in the community on Dec. 6, at 6:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. The meal will be catered by Luncheon is Served, and will be a fund raising dinner. Cost is $3 or 2 for $5. FBLA members are selling tickets in the community for this event.

Enrollment at Cal Poly registers healthy 3.1% rise over last year

Cal Poly Pomona's enrollment shows a healthy upward growth of 3.1 percent over last year's figures at a time when a decline has been noted in many universities across the nation.

The final census counts 14,896 students enrolled for fall 1979, an increase of 451 over last year's figure 14,445.

The average number of units per student for this fall is 12.4 with the number of full-time equivalent students at Cal Poly Pomona numbering 12,318.1. Fifteen units are considered a full course.

One trend attributing to Cal Poly's increased enrollment is the apparent interest of today's college students in career-oriented education. The largest enrollment increases were in the schools of business administration and engineering, where this emphasis predominates.

As Dr. David G. Foley, acting dean of the school of business administration, says, "Our faculty keeps in close touch with business, industry, and government agencies to determine what they expect from graduates, and we gear our programs so students meet those expectations."

An important factor influencing Cal Poly's enrollment growth is the general population growth in a 20-mile radius of the campus, from which an estimated 80 percent of the student population is drawn.

During the next decade, the State of California is expected to show a 15.79 percent population gain. In the four counties surrounding Cal Poly, the population gain is projected at 36.98 percent.

Admission watchers this fall noted with concern that only 54 percent of the new students who applied, were accepted, registered and persisted in the university to the third week of school when the census count took place. (The figure was 60 percent in fall 1978.)

In other words, 1.85 applications were processed to enroll one new student, a costly procedure.

Between now and 1990 the number of 18-year-olds in the United States is expected to drop more than 18 percent, according to estimates by the Census Bureau.

How Cal Poly's enrollment will be affected by this is indeterminate, since the figures do not consider returning, part-time, older, and foreign student populations.

However, with the expanded continuing education, external degree, and night programs at the university and population growth in the area, it is expected that enrollment will continue to rise.

Pony Express to ride again

More than 200 members of San Dimas United Methodist Church, 114 West Second Street, San Dimas, will become saddle-carrying "trail bosses" and "route riders" Sunday for their church's Pony Express stewardship campaign.

When the Pony Express began its famous ride with the mail, the American Bible Society gave each rider a Bible, not just to carry, but with the understanding that they would read it regularly. Now, many years later, the San Dimas United Methodist Church is sending the news about their budget needs by the same fast and dependable method.

Fred Johnson, general manager of the campaign, and Ila Dunzweiler, Jim Hanson, and Roger Nelson, station agents, have lined up twelve trail bosses. The trail bosses will supervise the relaying of the saddlebags to each of the church's families on Pony Express "run" routes. Each saddlebag bears the names of 10 church families, he said. A family will fill in an "estimate of giving" card, seal it in an envelope and insert it in the saddlebag, which then is carried to another family on the route. Each route has been designed so that it will run through members who live in the same general section of the community.

Shut-in members will be at the end of the route so they can enjoy a call from a route rider and may phone the trail boss to pick up the saddlebag.

Funds collected to feed families

The families of Christ Community Church of Diamond Bar are saving all that they can these days from their own food budgets. Why? The answer is so that they can give food to hungry refugee families in Cambodia. Funds collected by each family is through a small "Bread Shaped Receptacle" provided by World Vision International of Pasadena.

According to the Biblical writer Mark, Jesus Christ once fed a hungry multitude of 5,000 people through a small boy's gift of 5 loaves and 2 fish. But what happened 20 centuries ago may be taking place once again in our own day.

Where does the extra "Bread Money" come from? Well some of these Diamond Bar families are discovering that they can have less expensive meals or that they can eat a few less meals and still others find that they can fast a day or two each week.

Chaffey attracts more students from outside

Applications by students from other college districts for special permission to attend Chaffey College have increased 30 percent this year.

According to Dean Hafiz, dean of admission and records, 349 residents of other college districts applied this year, compared to 267 last year and 231 in 1977.

Additionally, the percentage of students who are released from Chaffey

College to attend other colleges has decreased 42 percent this year.

"I attribute this situation to the tremendous success of the marketing program," said James Catanzaro, district superintendent and president.

"Many of these students lived on the periphery of the Chaffey College district and formerly were not clearly aware of the opportunities of Chaffey College."

Residents from Citrus,

Los Angeles Community, Mt. San Antonio, Mt. San Jacinto, Rio Hondo, Riverside City and San Bernardino community college districts attend Chaffey College. The most popular programs in which these students enroll are court reporting, interior design and radiologic technology.

These programs are not offered at many neighboring colleges, according to a report by Hafiz.

'Man of La Mancha' auditions scheduled

Ontario Civic Light Opera announces auditions for "Man of La Mancha" to be presented early in 1980.

All performers will be seen in the new Civic Center Community Building across from the Ontario City Library on Thursday, Nov. 29, from 7 to 9 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 2, from noon to 2 p.m.

Everyone will be asked to sing something from the show. Dancers must come prepared to dance. An accompanist will be provided.

The show features such popular songs as "The Impossible Dream" and "Dulcinea."

The setting is a prison of the Spanish Inquisition. All characters have been imprisoned for various crimes from shoplifting to murder.

The role of Miguel De Cervantes will be played by Michael Alexander, professor of communication arts at Chaffey College. All other roles are open. Following are brief character descriptions:

Sancho, a tenor, over 40, manservant and sidekick to Cervantes, he provides comic relief and a curious sort of logic through his constantly quoting old proverbs.

Captain of the Inquisition, a speaking role. He is a soldier, harsh and cold.

Governor, a baritone, 35 to 45 years old. A prisoner, he is a big man of obvious authority. He also plays the innkeeper.

Duke, a tenor, 30 to 40 years old. Also playing the role of Sanson Carrasco. He is a prisoner of draggle-tail elegance. He is haughty, sarcastic and filled with a false sense of pride.

Aldonza, a soprano, 28 to 35 years old. A female prisoner of striking beauty, to whom life has been harsh. She also plays an aloof and callous serving maid at the inn.

Maria, a speaking role, 35 to 45 years old. The innkeeper's wife.

Fernia, a serving girl in the inn, 20 to 25 years old. Antonia, a soprano, 22 to 26 years old. Niece of Alonso Quijana, she is a softer version of Sanson Carrasco.

The cast and chorus also include soldiers, prison guards, prisoners, gypsies and men of the inquisition. This will include all age ranges.

Questions may be directed to Austin Peay at 988-1151, extension 714.

Helping children adjust to divorce

By LINDA BERGSTEDT
Panorama Editor

Divorce is an abstract idea to a child, who is not sure what "divorce" means and mostly worries about "what is going to happen to me?"

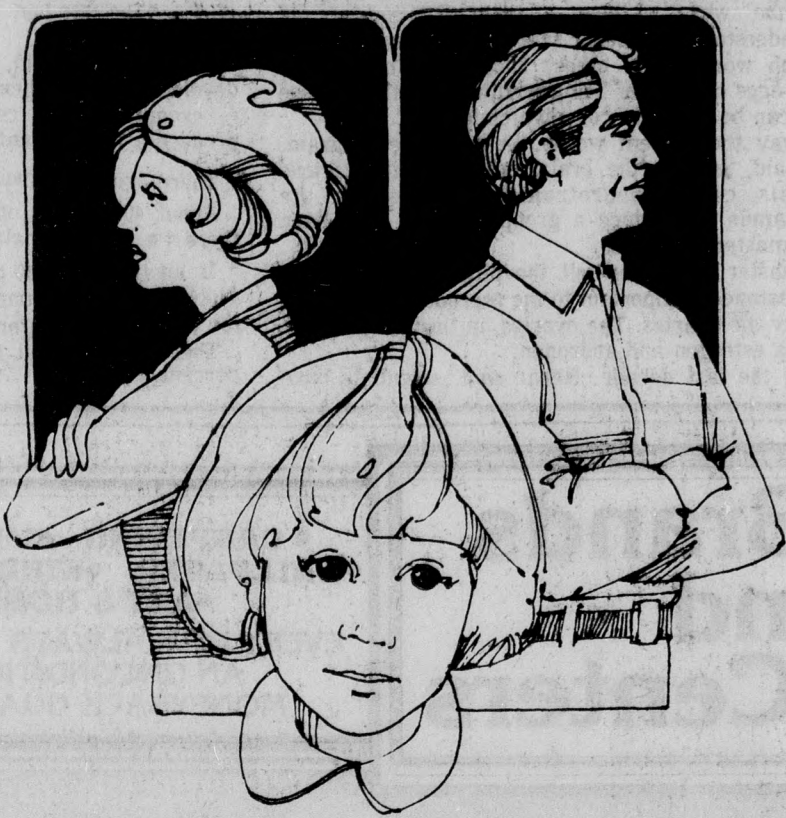

"All children of divorce will be fine as long as they receive adequate help from their parents to sort out and weather the storm of separation," asserts Dr. Joan Kelly, clinical psychologist and member of the Kentucky Fried Chicken Time Out Institute.

A pioneer in the study of children's reactions to divorce and separation, Dr. Kelly advises, "parents should explain to their children that they are getting a divorce; they cannot assume the child knows what is going on."

"We both love you" is the key message to get across to children, Dr. Kelly notes. "We are not divorcing you" should be the underlying statement.

"Divorce is strictly an adult solution to an adult problem... it doesn't necessarily help the children," the psychologist says.

This was one of the basic findings of the "Children of Divorce Project" begun by Dr. Kelly and her colleagues in 1970. This five-year clinical research project investigated the experience and effect of divorce on 131 children and adolescents from 60 divorcing families in Marin County. The study was the first of its kind to go directly to youngsters to find out how they really feel about their parents' divorces.

"What is going to happen to me?" is often the thought of a child whose parents are going through a divorce. Advice on how to handle children's reaction to divorce is given by Dr. Joan Kelly, clinical psychologist.

The happiest children after divorce are those whose parents have worked out "co-parenting" — both parents maintaining and fostering the parent/child relationship, the study showed.

Dr. Kelly advises seeking professional counseling for the entire family during the divorce process, especially for help in determining visitation arrangements. She said the conventional "twice a month" is not enough according to the youngsters surveyed. The happiest were those children who saw their non-custodial parent several times a week. Space and freedom to develop affectionate relationships with stepparents also is an important factor, the study indicated.

The co-parenting concept not only helps the children but also the parents, according to Dr. Kelly, because it provides a focus and helps adults to better integrate their emotions. If the parents are at odds, the child will be more apt to feel that he or she must "choose sides." And unless it is emphasized that divorce is a parental matter, some children may try to prevent it. Parents must explain divorce not once but many times in many ways, especially to young children.

No matter how bad the marriage may be, very few children are relieved to find out about a divorce, the psychologist said. Divorce is a major life crisis for most children and adolescents. More often, sadness and anger prevail. The important thing is to be supportive, available and sensitive to your child, the psychologist advises.

In addition to anger, other reactions to divorce can differ according to age group. Here are some initial reactions to divorce that parents can expect from children based on the divorce project findings. These are guidelines, not specifics.

Pre-Schoolers: Most children respond with observable and significant behavioral changes — regressions in toilet training, increased irritability, whining, crying, general fearfulness, sleep problems and an increase in aggressive behavior and tantrums.

Five- and Six Year Olds: Although these children experience heightened anxiety and aggression at the time of separation, this age group seems to have a more reasonable understanding of the divorce-related changes and their self-confidence and on-going development are not impeded as easily as the younger ones.

Seven to Ten Year Olds: Fears of being forgotten, great sadness about the family breakup and loyalty conflicts predominate in the 7-to-10-year-old age group.

Adolescents: Unlike the younger children, who sometimes feel responsible for the divorce.

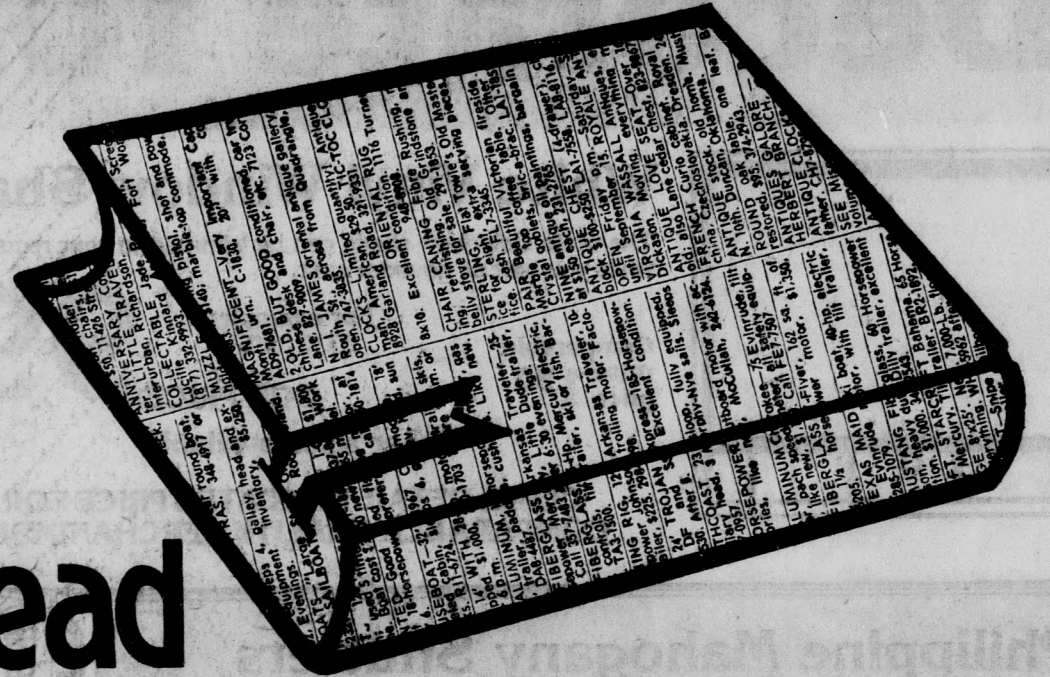

She does not suggest parents stay together for the sake of their children. Rather, she and her colleagues on the project hope to generate enough information about children's reactions to divorce to make the process easier for all involved.

Drugs can help infertile women begin ovulating

There is more than a hope now, thanks to modern science, that millions of women, previously considered infertile, can bear children.

This hope rises from new understandings of the female reproductive cycle, the many factors involved and how they can be manipulated.

In fact, for a certain class of women who for one reason or another can't produce eggs, it seems to be more than just a hope — almost a promise.

These points were made by Dr. Robert Rebar, an assistant professor of reproductive medicine at the University of California at San Diego School of Medicine.

"If there are eggs left in the ovary," he said during an interview, "modern medical science today has the drugs to induce ovulation (the production of those eggs) in virtually all women."

The research in this area is still in its infancy, Rebar said, and it still seems somewhat weird — bouncing around from such things as jogging to stress and just how they may affect the workings of the brain and the production of hormones and other chemical compounds.

For example, Rebar noted, many (40 percent) female joggers demonstrate a reduced ability to produce the female hormone estrogen. College coeds seem to have a similar problem, perhaps related to stress.

While the "whys" of these and other situations are not really understood yet, Rebar said there is now no reason why such women and others should not be able to produce eggs capable of being fertilized. In short, these women can be made to conceive children.

The way the system works, in a simple diagram, Rebar said, is that the brain, working with various chemicals called neurotransmitters, spurs the hypothalamus to produce a group of what have been called "master hormones."

The master hormones tell the pituitary to produce other substances, important to the reproductive system, especially the ovaries. The ovaries, in turn produce the hormones estrogen and androgen.

During the last decade, Rebar said, scientists have developed a whole series of drugs that can spur or interrupt this process.

This new-found ability to make women ovulate, Rebar said, is the result of research done around the world. This whole field of reproductive medicine has exploded in the last 10 years, Rebar said.

As a result, he said, a whole series of drugs have been developed which, when properly used, can almost assure — except in some rare cases — that a woman can produce a life - potential egg.

There are many causes of infertility, Rebar noted.

About 40 percent of the time, he said, it's because there's a missing male factor.

In another 20 to 30 percent, infertility results from a blockage of the woman's Fallopian tubes that lead from the ovaries to the uterus or womb, he said.

There's a cervical factor that accounts for about 5 percent.

"A Choral Christmas" is the theme of Chaffey College's annual Christmas concert presented by the 50-voice concert choir and the 20-voice concert ensemble singers, left, on Sunday, Dec. 2, 8 p.m. in the Little Theater. A small admission is charged.

Music of all ages appropriate to the season will be heard. The "Midnight Mass for Christmas," by 17th century French composer Marc-Antoine Charpentier, will open the program. The mass will be sung by the concert choir and soloists will be accompanied by a professional orchestra of strings, flutes, organ and harpsichord.

The concert ensemble singers will open the second half of the program with the traditional "Ave Marie." Also included in the program are "Noel We Sing," "Wassail Carol" and "Good King Wenceslas."

Staff Writer

Israeli graphic arts and small sculptures will be shown and sold at "An Evening of Israeli Art," scheduled Wednesday from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. at Congregation Emanu El, 3512 N. E St., San Bernardino.

The exhibition is sponsored by Arrowhead Chapter of Hadassah and proceeds will help continue the group's medical projects and research. There will be no admission charge.

The Claremont Graduate Art Department will present a free movie, "Running Fence," Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Galileo Hall, Harvey Mudd College, near 12th Street and Dartmouth Avenue, Claremont.

The Chaffey College Creative Arts Department will sponsor an art sale and bazaar in the free speech area of the college's Alta Loma campus Wednesday and Thursday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A Christmas sale and member show will be featured at the Riverside Art Center, 3425 Seventh St., Riverside, through Dec. 21. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through

Strong OIA pace continues

Airline passenger and air cargo gains at Ontario International Airport continued their strong upward trend during October as the airport handled 185,910 air travelers and 867,001 pounds of cargo. It marked a 13.4 percent increase in air cargo compared with October 1978.

In addition to airline increases, flying of all types went up. The number of operations (landings and take-offs) logged last month was 15,301 for a 6.4 percent gain over the same period a year ago. By category, air carrier operations rose 14.2 percent from 2,788 to 3,184; air taxi movements were up 28.6 percent from 1,330 to 1,710 and military flying went from 657 to 735 for an 11.9 percent gain. A very slight increase was seen in general aviation (non-airline, non-military flying) activity which rose from 9,601 to 9,653.

Saturday.

"Terminal Station and Depot," a Smithsonian collection of photographs of America's railroad stations from 1830 to 1920 will be shown at the Cal State, San Bernardino Library, 5500 State College Parkway, San Bernardino, through Dec. 2. Hours are 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 1 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

Oils, watercolors, acrylics and porcelains are displayed at the Fontana Art Gallery, 8536 Sierra Ave., Fontana. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The Fontana Art Association also offers classes.

Choral performance scheduled

The Cal Poly Pomona University Concert Choir will present Stravinsky's "Les Noces," a spectacle of choral and instrumental sound, Thursday in the university theater at 8:15 p.m. This work will combine the performance forces of singers — both chorus and soloists-dancers, four pianists and an ensemble of percussionists.

"Les Noces" is translated "The Wedding" (and will be sung in English), and depicts through singing and ballet the events of a Russian peasant wedding. The performance will be conducted by Dr. Charles Edward Lindsley, professor of voice and choral music at Cal Poly.

According to Lindsley, Stravinsky wrote the work in 1917 and it is representative of his "primitive" period, with a highly rhythmic texture and a primeval quality reminiscent of his "Rite of Spring" for orchestra.

The ballet portion of the performance will be danced by members of the Cal Poly dance department, with choreography by dance instructor Ann Stapolepszy.

The four pianists will be Daniel Bridston, Kathleen Prout, Barbara Rogers and Donna Smith. Vocal soloists will be Lisa Johnson, soprano; Debra Rye, mezzo-soprano; Michael Gomez, tenor; and William New, baritone.

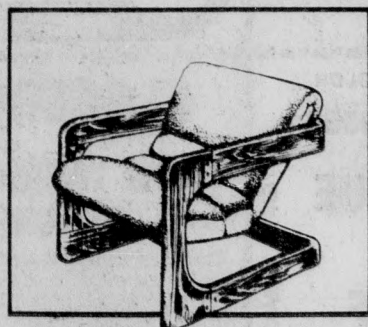

The Cal Poly Percussion Ensemble, Dr. Stanley Gibb, director, will also participate.

Books ready for auction

It's an old fashioned book auction at Scripps College's Denison Library on Tuesday, December 4. An official auctioneer, Dr. Richard Fadem, associate professor of British and American literature, will hawk classics, fiction, travel and French books.

Most of the selection is history and literature and there are some sets of books.

The Scripps College First Fall Book Auction will begin at 3 p.m. All books to be sold will be on display an hour before in the Orange Court of Denison Library and the proceeds will be applied to the preservation of library material and the purchasing of new phonograph records.

The Ella Strong Denison Library features the Macpherson Collection which contains more than 2,500 books by and about significant women. These primary source materials for original research surpass those available at many universities and graduate schools.

She plans to use her $200 scholarship to continue her college education and will work toward a Bachelor of Arts degree in Business Administration with an emphasis in business management.

Mrs. Linda Group was chosen by Mt. San Antonio College as the recipient of a $200 scholarship. Residing in Baldwin Park, she plans to transfer to Cal Poly to complete her BS in accounting. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma. She is also the mother of two sons and is active in the East Side Little League program.

Selection of the scholarship winners was made through the assistance of the scholarship, financial aid and business departments of the various schools. Presentations were made by Mrs. Lila Brubaker, EWI Philanthropy Director, on Nov. 15.

Childbirth film
"Childbirth for the Joy of It, II," a natural childbirth film featuring five births, is being shown at the Alta Loma/Rancho Cucamonga Branch Library, Dec. 5 at 7 p.m.

Following presentation of the film, Georgia Beechen, a certified childbirth instructor, will lead a discussion and answer questions about pregnancy, nutrition and the Bradley Method of natural childbirth. The film is being presented free of charge as a public service, and is recommended for viewing by expectant parents and grandparents, physicians, nurses, high school and college students, and the general public.

Diet changes can be upsetting

By Shirley Bright Boody
Registered Dietitian
Copley News Service

Constipation has many causes and almost no one escapes it entirely, at one time or another during a lifetime.

Changes in the diet with geographical relocation account for the typical traveler's plight. New foods, water and customs of a different country often produce temporary, but unpleasant problems.

Depending upon which countries are visited, and the excellence of the sanitation laws, many foreign visitors experience either the "Montezuma's Revenge" type of upset, or an annoying constipation. Visitors to the United States find the adjustment to our country just as disturbing as American travelers abroad.

It is a human problem that must be dealt with individually. The traveler's distress, however, is usually short-lived, as adjustments to new surroundings take place.

Packing some pure bran, mild laxative tablets or a few dried prunes along with an anti-diarrhea medication in every traveler's bag can save a lot of misery in a foreign country. Consider the problem of the poor guy trying to explain these needs in a place where he can't speak the language.

People who suffer chronic constipation at home often have a more serious situation. Some folks seem to have been "born that way" and indeed there are, to borrow a psychological term, "retentive" type personalities. Certainly, mental attitudes have significant effects on physical well-being. Hostile, angry and tense individuals often suffer from constipation, which in turn tends to heighten their hostility.

What effect will changes in the diet bring about? Depending upon what the habitual foods have been taken — a soft, bland diet with little or limited fluids, low fiber, high fat, sugary foods along with sedentary occupations may account for a sluggish intestinal tract. Excessive amounts of vitamin D can cause a loss of appetite and constipation — which may surprise some people who erroneously think that there is no such thing as a vitamin overdose.

One of the most effective ways of correcting constipation problems is to add a lot of water to the diet. A quart a day should be the minimal amount taken in addition to the regular beverages and more if possible.

Fiber, as it is currently called, rather than the former term, bulk or roughage, can easily be added to any diet. The simplest way is to sprinkle one to two tablespoons of pure bran, over other foods — preferably salads of fresh fruits and vegetables. Whole grain breads, cereals, nuts and pectin are effective aids and sources of dietary fiber.

Regular exercise on a daily basis puts every aspect of the body in better condition. It is more effective to exercise every day, even for a few minutes, than being an occasional "weekend athlete."

Many people have reported greater mental tranquility, and even emotional "highs" after establishing a regular routine of daily exercise for themselves.

This is particularly effective for the tense, nervous, or hostile personality with retentive constipation problems.

Dependence upon laxative medications seem to grow with continual use. Chronic constipation may require medical care and should not be ignored. It can be symptomatic of serious problems.

Try these easy changes in your lifestyle first, and you may be able to forestall future difficulties.

Dear Shirley: What do you think of non-dairy creamers instead of cream in coffee? — Mrs. D.M.

Dear Mrs. D.M.: If you are trying to lower the saturated fat in your diet, that is not the way to do it. Non-dairy creamers contain coconut oil, which is saturated fat. They can be used for people with milk allergies or those who have a lactose intolerance to milk.

Are you overweight? For information on Shirley's Million-Dollar Home Diet program, write to Shirley Bright Boody, P.O. Box 1038, Rancho Mirage, Calif. 92270.

Questions may be sent to Shirley Bright Boody, Eat Yourself Slim, Copley News Service, in care of The Daily Report.

Limeade for top treating

HOMESTEAD, Fla. — When Mother Nature hands you a small crop of high priced lemons, skip the lemonade and make Florida limeade instead.

That's the word from Florida lime growers who are experiencing one of their biggest crops in history. The bumper crop couldn't have come at a better time for consumers.

Last January, the lemon crop was severely damaged by freezing weather resulting in a lot fewer lemons at much higher prices. Limes on the other hand have been very inexpensive and reasonable prices are expected to remain stable through December.

While the situation may be a sour deal for lemon growers, consumers are taking advantage of lower priced limes and switching to them. "Limes are interchangeable in any recipe calling for lemons and in many cases are preferable," according to Charles Walker, Executive Vice President of the Florida Lime

November 29, 1979 Administrative Committee.

Florida limes always are seedless so they are more convenient to use. Another advantage of limes is their rich, green color which provides good color contrast and extra eye appeal to pale foods like fish.

"This is definitely the year for consumers to put the squeeze on with Florida seedless limes," commented Walker.

Protein meal in microwave

It's easy to serve a high protein entree at the last minute by combining the time saving qualities of your microwave with convenient canned tuna or salmon.

Tuna Noodle Casserole
(Makes 4 servings)
1 (8 ounce) package egg noodles
1 (7 ounce) can tuna
2 hard cooked eggs, finely chopped

1 can cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
3/4 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
1/4 cup seasoned bread crumbs

Cook noodles according to package directions, drain. In 1 1/2 quart glass casserole, combine noodles, tuna, hard-cooked eggs, soup and cheese. Combine milk and beaten egg, add to noodle mixture. Cook, uncovered, 5 minutes on FULL POWER. Stir casserole and sprinkle top with bread crumbs. Cover and cook an additional 4 minutes on FULL POWER. Let stand 3 minutes before serving.

Salmon Pie
(Makes 6 to 8 servings)
19-inch deep dish pie shell
1 (15 1/2 ounce) can salmon
Milk
3 eggs

1 cup soft bread cubes
1 tablespoon butter
1/3 cup chopped onion
1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice

1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
Place pastry shell in 9-inch glass pie plate. Prick uncooked shell to prevent bubbles. Cook, uncovered, 4 minutes on FULL POWER. Cool.

Drain salmon liquid into measuring cup. Add milk as needed to make one cup liquid. Bone, skin and flake salmon. In large glass bowl, combine eggs and milk mixture, beat slightly. Add bread cubes, combine thoroughly. Set aside.

In shallow glass dish, melt butter 30 seconds on FULL POWER. Add onion and cook 1 1/2 minutes on FULL POWER. Add onion, salmon, lemon juice, parsley and salt to egg mixture, mix well. Pour into prepared pastry shell. Cook, uncovered, 18 to 19 minutes on SIMMER / DEFOST or until center is cooked.

A SIMMER / DEFOST setting is equivalent to 50 percent power.

Cooking times given are based on the use of a 650 watt oven. For use in ovens of different wattages, consult your cookbook.

Handy facts

A handy kitchen technique: To crush potato chips simply and neatly, put them in a plastic bag, squeeze out the air, and twist to close. Then crush with a rolling pin until the crumbs are as fine as desired. A little gentle pressure is better than a heavy hand. Use the crushed chips to top casseroles and vegetable dishes.

How much to crush: Plan on five cups of potato chips to make 1 1/4 cups crumbs or 2 1/2 cups coarsely crushed chips.

New twist for an old favorite: Try this zesty new twist to make an everyday casserole new again. Mix the crumbs from your last bag of potato chips with a little grated cheese. Sprinkle generously on top of the casserole after it's done, then pop it under the broiler for a few minutes to melt the cheese and serve.

Keep your cool

Stir up pork-vegetables

If you're bored by the "same old salad" routine, but you don't have time for elaborate cooking, try preparing a meal Chinese style. In the Oriental method of quick - frying, food is cooked very fast on top of the stove. Because the cooking time is so brief, the kitchen doesn't get hot.

A main dish that'll help you keep your cool is Pork with Chinese Vegetables, created by home economists. It features a typically Chinese combination of meat with celery cabbage, fresh mushrooms, bamboo shoots, pea pods and water chestnuts. Accompany it with a salad of bean sprouts tossed with sesame dressing and plenty of chow mein noodles.

Backyard picnic banquet

If you're cutting back on long weekend outings this year because of the high price and some scarcity of gasoline, get reacquainted with the family picnic. Leave the car in the garage; a nearby park or even your own backyard can be a perfect picnic spot.

Home economists have created a picnic feast to rival the one mother used to make. Begin with frozen egg roll appetizers, grilled on a hibachi and served with piquant Chinese hot mustard and sweet and sour sauces. The sauces are readily available bottled. Delicate won ton soup is available in frozen, concentrated form. On the morning of your picnic, heat it and pour into a large vacuum bottle to keep hot until serving time.

The star of the meal is Confetti Chicken Salad, a main dish sparked with apples, Chinese pea pods, and fresh dill. And bring Mom's homemade cookies for the perfect final touch.

Confetti Chicken Salad
Yield: 6-8 Servings
2 cups cooked diced chicken
4 cups cooked, peeled and diced potatoes
2 cups peeled, diced apples
1 cucumber, peeled if desired and diced
1 6-ounce package frozen pea pods, cooked and drained
1 8-ounce can water chestnuts, drained and quartered
1 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
2 tablespoons minced pimiento
1 cup sour cream
1 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup lemon juice
Salt
Pepper
Fresh dill leaves, cut in 1/4-inch lengths
Leaf lettuce
Hard boiled eggs
Mix together chicken, potatoes, apples, cucumber, pea pods (reserving a few for garnish), water chestnuts, celery, pepper, pimiento, and one or two tablespoons of dill.
Blend sour cream, mayonnaise, and lemon juice together to make the dressing; season to taste with salt and pepper.
Carefully blend the salad dressing with the chicken-vegetable mixture. Line a large salad bowl with lettuce leaves and pile the salad on it. Garnish with sliced hard cooked eggs, pea pods and fresh dill.

Noodle Raisin Cookies
Yield: About 5 1/2 Dozen
1 cup (two sticks) butter
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup crisp rice cereal
1 3-ounce can chow mein noodles
1/2 cup seedless raisins
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
Granulated sugar
Cream butter and sugars together until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Add vanilla and sifted dry ingredients. Stir in cereal, noodles, raisins, and nuts. Chill dough thoroughly.
Shape pieces of dough into 1-inch balls and roll in granulated sugar. Place two inches apart on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes; cool on wire rack.

Vegetables (4 servings)
1 tablespoon cornstarch
3 tablespoons water
1/2 teaspoon sugar
Dash pepper
2 tablespoons oil
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sliced celery cabbage
1/2 cup diced fresh mushrooms
1 can (8 oz.) bamboo shoots, drained, cut in half crosswise
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 cup celery
1 pkg. (6 oz.) frozen Chinese pea pods, thawed, cut in half crosswise
1 can (8 oz.) water chestnuts, drained, quartered
1 green onion, minced
1/2 cup chicken broth
1 lb. diced cooked pork
1/4 cup toasted blanched almonds for garnish.
Blend cornstarch and water to a paste; stir in sugar and pepper.
Heat oil in wok or large skillet over medium high heat; add salt. Add vegetables; cook, stirring 2 minutes. Add stock. Cook, covered, over medium heat about 2 minutes, or until vegetables are crisp-tender. Add pork; cook and stir until heated through. Add cornstarch paste and continue to cook, stirring, until thickened. Place pork mixture on serving platter and garnish with almonds. Serve immediately with chow mein noodles or hot cooked rice.

Bean-Sprout-Chicken Salad with Sesame Dressing (4 servings)
2 cups bean sprouts, rinsed and drained
2 cups julienne-cut cooked chicken
1 cup julienne-cut cucumber
1/4 cup chopped green onions
1/4 cup drained chopped

Christmas tour in Mt. Baldy Village

The pride and joy of Verona Cottrell is this wood-burning stove she and her husband, Ward, found in a Victorville antique shop. Their Mt. Baldy home's kitchen was remodeled for the stove, which Mrs. Cottrell uses for baking, cooking and heating. This home of 2,500 square feet will be open for the Christmas tour on Friday and Saturday in Mt. Baldy Village.

Verona Cottrell sits in her living room which has a vista of woods and a babbling brook. This home, which started as a cabin in 1925, will be one of three open to guests during the Mt. Baldy Village Home Tour on Friday and Saturday. This is an annual celebration to herald Christmas staged by the Mt. Baldy Community Club. The Mt. Baldy Village Church also will be open to visitors.

Mountain community opens 3 homes to guests

A babbling brook, a village church, a clock collection, a den of wood from an 1880 Cucamonga barn and crisp, clear air will be featured on the 1979 annual Christmas Home Tour in Mt. Baldy.

The Mt. Baldy Community Club is sponsoring the tour to herald the Christmas season. The homes of Sandra Kelley, Betty and Charlie Camp and Ward and Verona Cottrell will be on the tour along with the Mt. Baldy Village Church. A Yuletide Social will welcome visitors at the new school house after the tour.

Between 1 and 4 and 7 and 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, the "Christmas Is a Commin'" tour will welcome guests to the picturesque village.

Marge Gross

Tom Tondee

Sandra Kelley's home, north of the village, is the first stop and here visitors will enjoy, during the daylight hours, mountain vistas from the den and the living room, dining room and kitchen area.

The large den had been a garage until Mrs. Kelley decided to renovate. The boards on the south wall were originally from an 1880 barn on Turner Avenue in Cucamonga. An enthusiastic collector of memorabilia from past eras, the home has interesting old pictures, a Victrola with a big horn-speaker, an old wall telephone which works for incoming but not outgoing calls and furniture from the turn of the century and mid-1920s.

The Kelley bedroom has the bath connected but only separated by a low wall. The sunken bathtub is the kind "Kris Kristofferson would like," it has been said.

In the village, the Camp's home will intrigue visitors when they see Mrs. Camp's collection of American and some European clocks. Small, medium and large clocks are on the wall and shelves in every room. There are four different clocks on the mantle.

"I have about 30 to 35," Mrs. Camp said. "I dearly love American clocks. Only about eight are kept running and they have to be wound once a week."

The stone house was built about 60 to 70 years ago, it is estimated by the owners. Mrs. Camp said the house was never used as a home, but was a retreat for nuns.

"I have lived on Mt. Baldy for many years, and I can remember seeing the nuns, in their black and white habits, playing in the snow," Mrs. Camp said.

After the devastating flood of 1938, the stone house was renovated and a wood addition put on with two large and one small bedroom and bath on the second floor with a garage underneath.

The Camps moved into the house in 1975 and they have made many improvements to turn it into a warm, comfortable home. Mrs. Camp's dining room table will be set with blue Royal Daulton and Willow Ware dishes which belonged to her husband's mother. She also will be showing her collection of cut glass, pressed glass and other glass baskets of all sizes.

Moving south to the Cottrell home, the visitors will be welcomed by the spaciousness of the living room which has one long wall of glass. One looks through the glass into the woods past Bear Creek which runs almost under the house.

Verona Cottrell's pride and joy is a wood-burning kitchen stove she found in a Victorville antique store. The kitchen has been renovated this past summer to accommodate the stove which is used daily. Mrs. Cottrell bakes breads, cakes and cookies in the oven and vegetables, spaghetti and other foods requiring boiling on top. She regulates the oven temperature by opening and closing the two dampers. She also has an ultra-modern electric stove, but said it is seldom used.

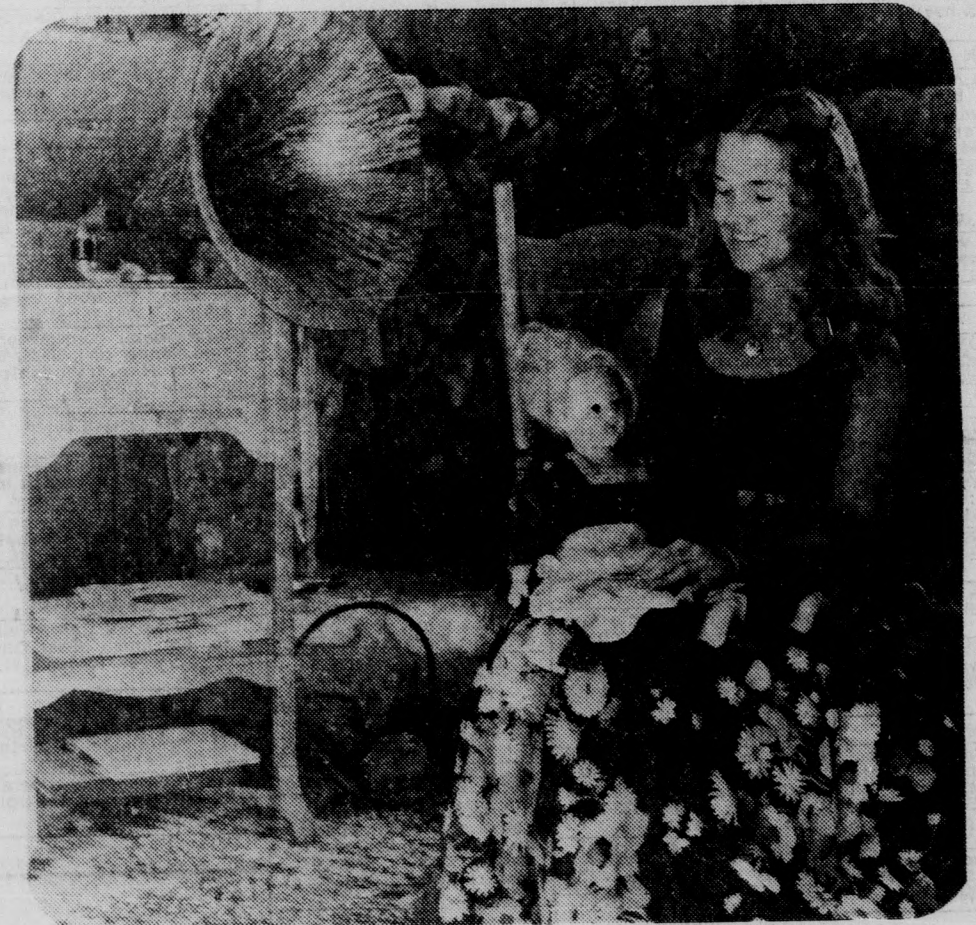

The Cottrells eat at a table beside the kitchen's glass wall with a view of the woods and the sound of the brook as a welcome "guest." On the second floor, the master bedroom also has a woods-brook view. "We sleep with the windows wide open winter and summer so we can hear the brook," Mrs. Cottrell said.

Also on the second floor is Mrs. Cottrell's office where she does genealogy research. The guest bedroom features an old-fashioned atmosphere with iron headboards and a satin-glazed overhead bowl light fixture.

The Cottrell house was built in 1925 as a cabin. Through the years, each owner has added here and there. The present owners extended the house so they could have the illusion of living in the woods.

The homes and the lovely Mt. Baldy Village Church will be decorated for the Christmas season. Especially used will be the greens and pine cones which have been found in the mountain area. All the homes have large fireplaces which will be burning with warm fires from wood gathered on the mountainside with the approval of the Forestry Service.

Tickets may be bought on the tour days in front of the Mt. Baldy Village Church. Proceeds will benefit the Mt. Baldy Volunteer Fire Department, the church and the Mt. Baldy School. Call Mary Lou Farmer, 981-3526, for further information.

Rocking a doll beside an old Victrola is Sandra Kelley. She is in the den of her Mt. Baldy Village home, a room which had been a garage until renovated. Above the den is a bedroom loft, and the south wall is of boards which had been in a Cucamonga barn built in 1880. Mrs. Kelley's home will be open to guests for the Mt. Baldy Christmas Home Tour. On the upper level of the house is a bedroom and combined living room, dining room and kitchen.

Betty Camp winds one of the 30 to 35 clocks which grace her Mt. Baldy home. This home belonging to Charlie and Betty Camp was built 60 to 70 years ago and was used as a nun's retreat. The stone house will be on the Mt. Baldy Christmas tour. Guests are invited to see this home and two others on Friday and Saturday from 1 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Tickets may be bought in front of the Mt. Baldy Village Church.

The dining room table of Betty Camp's home will be set with dishes which had belonged to her husband's mother. Mrs. Camp will welcome guests to her home during the Mt. Baldy Christmas home tour to see her collection of crystal baskets and American and European clocks. The home also features unique frosted glass windows in the kitchen cabinets and a huge fireplace which is round on the outside. The old field stone house was built many years ago and was a nun's retreat.
